

Guidance for your food development journey

The expertise at Tetra Recart® Food Development Centre covers the whole food experience, from ingredients to processing and packaging. Whether you look to fine-tune existing or create new products, this is how we help you get there.

FOOD DEVELOPMENT JOURNEY

PROCESS STEPS

Explore ideas

Reimagine your product and explore new paths to meet consumer needs in workshops with our experts.

Develop the product

Based on your original product or one of our ready recipe ideas, we match ingredients and packaging with the experience you aim for.

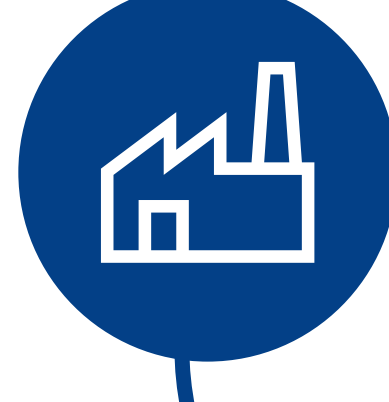

Hear from consumers

A complete end-product is ready to be used in different in-house and consumer evaluations.

Prepare industrial production

Before introducing your product to the market, we evaluate and make final adjustments.

EXPERT COMPETENCIES

EXPERT COMPETENCIES

Define pre-process steps

From cutting and slicing to blending, we identify and optimise all steps to your product concept.

Proactive and solving

Our experts identify challenges and suggest alternative approaches to eliminate unpleasant surprises.

Advise on food safety

We continuously analyse the product from a safety perspective, sticking to our main principle of making food safe.

Guide to optimal heat treatment

We want to sterilise food at low temperatures and short durations. Our experts explore the best approach for your product to make it safe while remaining fresh.

Improve and adapt the recipe

When finalising the product, we discuss if and how the recipe needs to be adjusted to match your production line.

Explaining Tetra Recart

We provide you with knowledge of how your product functions and benefits from Tetra Recart packaging, distribution, and consumption.

Evaluate shelf-life

We advise you on an initial expiration date and how to later revisit the product to discuss whether adjustments are needed.

Unique flexibility

Visiting our facilities might not be convenient for everyone. So we can come to you for trials, development, and support.

Want to know more about how Tetra Pak can support your food business?

Contact us today